Title:

Volta Polska's Michał Turowski on the Challenges of the Energy Transition

Summary:

Volta Polska invites stakeholders and industry professionals to learn more about the significance of long-term solutions like corporate Power Purchase Agreements (cPPA) for stabilizing energy costs. In an upcoming #VoltaEnergyLAB webinar titled “cPPA in Practice”, Business Development Manager Michał Turowski will explore how these agreements support the green transition. The event will take place on October 23, 2025, at 10:00 AM.

Volta Polska welcomes readers to this interview with Michał Turowski, Business Development Manager, conducted by BiznesAlert. In this interview, Turowski discusses the key challenges of the energy transition. During his discussion with BiznesAlert, he emphasizes that maintaining grid stability and reliability amid rising demand for renewables remains a core challenge. Volta Polska is actively supporting the energy sector's transformation with innovative, long-term solutions such as corporate Power Purchase Agreements (cPPAs) and Solar as a Service Agreements (SaaS).

In the forthcoming #VoltaEnergyLAB webinar “cPPA – Key to Stable Energy Costs and the Green Transformation of Businesses”, scheduled for October 23, 2025, at 10:00 AM, Michał Turowski will explain in Polish the nature and operation of corporate Power Purchase Agreements—a long-term contracts enabling companies to purchase renewable energy at stable prices directly from producers. He will detail how companies can leverage cPPAs to meet ESG goals, reduce carbon footprints, and stabilize energy costs while aligning with evolving regulatory requirements.
